

Author: Impulse Quarterly Article

The Impulse Network is a student-driven, not-for-profit movement founded to create impulses for change in the sports industry. From the base in St. Gallen, they are committed to connecting political, business, cultural and other leaders in society to drive change on a global and regional level.

The Impulse Network is looking for an author of an article for their magazine, the Impulse Quarterly. The article should cover the following topics around career transition:

- Your own experiences
- Difficulties / Opportunities
- How can you apply your athlete's mindset in your second career?

Workload

The article should be around 1-2 pages long. You will be paired with a sports industry leader as Co-author who adds a business perspective to the article. The article can be written fully remote.

Timeframe

The article is planned for the first issue of the Impulse Quarterly in 2022 and should be finished until the end of January.

Application

Interested athletes can apply to julia@athletes-network.com